Examples of ward activities

Disaster prevention

A disaster prevention network that supports each other in the community

When a major earthquake occurs, support from the town, fire department, and police may not reach an area immediately.

In past major earthquakes, many lives were saved through mutual help from family members and neighbors, led by the ward (neighborhood association). In preparation for the feared Nankai Trough megathrust earthquake, the ward has organized voluntary disaster prevention associations to help residents help each other in an emergency.

Crime prevention Traffic safety

A safe and secure life is in our hands!

To ensure that residents can live in peace in the community, we are working to ensure safety in the community by installing and managing security lights, watching over children, and conducting security patrols.

Environmental beautification Maintenance

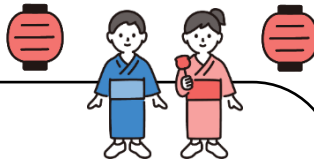

Creating a livable community

The area is kept clean because the ward maintains and manages garbage collection sites, mows grass, cleans up, and more.

The ward also conveys residents' opinions and requests to the town in an effort to create a more livable area.

Interaction and exchange

For a spiritually rich life

We hold various events such as festivals, sports days, Bon Odori festivals, and Respect for the Aged Day celebrations, and are active in deepening friendships and interactions among local residents.

Providing government and local information

Providing lifestyle information

Various administrative information, including the "Taketoyo Public Relations" and "Town Council Newsletter," is delivered through the ward. Local information and announcements of various events are also made known to residents through the ward's circulars and bulletin boards.

In times of emergency, the ward is dependable

Through ward activities, opportunities for communication within the community are created on a daily basis, enhancing the mutual assistance function of the entire community.

⇒Let's each take responsibility for disaster response and other issues, and by joining the ward, we can work to build a strong community.
